Nossas raízes

Home cooking, crafts, copyright and deeply connected to its surroundings. The history of the food we serve in Esquina Mocotó begins in the field. Primarily responsible for each of the dishes served here are farmers and artisans as well as we are dedicated to express excellence in their craft.

Starting with the trivial rice and beans, the Paraíba Valley, the fields of the Chicão Ruzene comes our rice bolinha, jasmim, cateto e vermelho. Just beside Patrick Assumpção, from Fazenda Coruputuba produces mandioca ouro and quandu bean which is served with the young goat bred by Perriceli family in Brotas.

Vegetables and herbs all come from small producers who are in the city's outskirts. Fine herbs, Farm Maria Hortaleve are some of them. Fiori de Zuca's organic mushrooms comes weekly from Salto, a few kilometers from the capital. Our organic peppers and sauces are prepared by Luciano Gambarini, in Fazenda Jatoba, in southern Minas Gerais.

Vinegars, basic element in our kitchen are organic and made from mango, cashew, honey, orange, tangerine, apple, among others, produced by Wilma Spinosa comes directly from Assis to our pots.

The goat cheese comes from Paulocapri, Lindóia producer group. The region also has the fubá, the flower and canjiquinha, all made from natural corn, non-transgenic from the Bragato family. Natural is also the chicken from Korin, bred in Ipeúna and with which we make all our broths and casseroles. From there and from Yamaguishi farm comes our organic eggs, always fresh.

The fishmonger Wayner, founder of Ribeira Fish, ensures that we always have the freshest product, that means we're always cooking in accordance with the provision of the sea. Of fresh water comes the pirarucu produced by Mr. Ejiri in Miracatu that produces exclusively for our restaurant mini maxixes.

Our meat exclusively cattle Bonsmara or Angus, are bred for refrigerators as Swift and Minerva. From Cerrado Carnes, Gonzalo Barquero we receive peccary and white-lipped peccaries, Brazilian native pigs bred in a ecological way. From Cowpig in Boituva, comes pork cuts made exclusively for Esquina Mocotó.

Other craftsmen who extol the pig are the Cinque family, which produces handmade meat and smoked Italian tradition in Cotia. Of Spanish origin, the Salamanca hams are produced in Catanduva already the second generation of the family of founders.

Anyway, this is a small part of the great team of partners working as much as us to offer a unique experience to those who visit us. Gradually and live will tell a little more of these stories.

Enjoy your food!

Rodrigo Oliveira
